ColoServe's Parent Company ServePath Celebrates Five Years as Dedicated Server Hosting Provider and Internet Infrastructure Pioneer

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., March 14, 2006 – ColoServe today announced that its parent company ServePath, a leading dedicated server hosting provider, is marking its fifth anniversary in the hosting business. With more than 2,000 business customers in more than 100 countries, ServePath offers powerful Internet hosting services that are customized to meet the needs of each individual client.

"We at ServePath are extremely proud to be celebrating five very successful years as a top dedicated server hosting company," said John Keagy, president, ServePath. "When we started five years ago, there were questions about whether our business model of offering affordable, reliable, dedicated servers would work. Now, half a decade and a technology millennium later, ServePath stands as one of the original group of dedicated server hosting providers that took the risk and pioneered a whole new industry in server computing. We're excited about the future and plan to continue to grow our business, expand our data center, and launch new products and services to meet the changing requirements of the industry."

From its data center in San Francisco, one of the world's top Internet centers, ServePath manages several thousand servers for clients. Customers include small to medium technology companies, large enterprises, international, federal, state and local government agencies, and web hosting resellers.

"While other hosting companies come and go, ServePath is debt free and will be here for our customers," Keagy said. "As Internet infrastructure pioneers, we're known for our Screaming-Fast Network™, which provides the speed and reliability our customers count on. We're always looking ahead to ensure that we have the capacity, both in terms of our data center and our support team, to maintain our high level of service. We'll continue to do so in the years to come."

ServePath's dedicated hosting solutions and managed services are immediately available. For more information, please contact ServePath at www.ServePath.com, or call 1-866-321-7284.
